

ANGLOPHONIA / CALIBAN N° 15 / 2004

SOMMAIRE

Introduction. . . . .	5
Victor Sage : To the Sierra Morena: Towards a geography of the Uncanny. . . . .	9
Maurice Lévy : FAQ : What is Gothic?. . . . .	23
Marc Amfreville : Alienation in 'Gothic' American Fiction. . . . .	39
Maxime Lachaud : The Abject Body in Harry Crews's Fiction. . . . .	49
Sara Thornton : The Haunted House of Victorian Advertising: Hysteria, Paranoia, Perversion. . . . .	59
David Punter : Thoughts on Teaching Psychoanalysis and the Gothic. . . . .	75
Max Duperray : 'In a Glass Darkly': Reflections of a Gothic Past. . . . .	85
Magali Falco : Patric McGrath's Case Histories or the Ruins of Psychoanalysis". . . . .	95
Robert Smart, Michael Hutcheson : 'Negative History' and Irish Gothic Literature: Persistence and Politics". . . . .	105
Laurence Talairach-Vielmas : Legacies of the Past: The Buried Stories of Thornfield all. . . . .	119
Sylvie Maurel : Romantic Ghosting in Daphne du Maurier's Rebecca ". . . . .	131
Françoise Dupeyron-Lafay : The Paradox of Gothic Detection in The Law and the Lady (1875) by Wilkie Collins". . . . .	141
Kirstin Johnson : When 'letter' becomes 'litter': the (de)construction of the message from Ann Radcliffe to Wilkie Collins. . . . .	153
Laure Blanchemain : 'The Dagger, the Shroud, the Gravestone': Gothic Motifs in Fanny Burney's The Wanderer . . . . .	163
Michael Hollington : Lawrentian Gothic and 'The Uncanny'. . . . .	171
Avril Horner, Sue Zlosnik : Dead Funny: Gender and the Comic Turn. . . . .	185
Elena Vassilieva : Gothic Archetypes in Hollywood: The Trickster and the Double in Batman and The Mask . . . . .	199
Elizabeth Durot-Bouc� : 'Chew You Up and Spit You Out': Rewriting a Familiar Fixture of the Gothic Novel. . . . .	209
Gilles M�n�galdo : The Endurance of Gothic Motifs on Screen. . . . .	217
Rapha�lle Costa de Beauregard : Screening the Gothic Genre in Griffith's Broken Blossoms . . . . .	227

Hélène Machinal : Gothic Remains and Aesthetic Reflections in a selection of Conan Doyle's Short Stories. . . . .	233
Jean-Michel Ganteau : Un-remaindering Gothic Romance: Peter Ackroyd's Logic of Affect. . . . .	243
Anne-Laure Fortin-Tournès : Ian Sinclair's White Chapel, Scarlet Tracings ; the critical power of Intertextuality with the Gothic. . . . .	255
Fred Botting : "Resistance is Futile". . . . .	265
Comptes rendus. . . . .	295
Sommaire. . . . .	303